

Artists are chosen for Spring Fair

SUBMISSIONS have poured into Lizard Art for its annual Spring Fair at Trelowarren. The organisation reports that artists and their work have now been selected.

"Following last year's huge success of the first ever Spring Art Fair at Trelowarren, this year's event promises to be a really cracking show," said chair Janet Judge.

"The call for submissions brought forward a record number of entries from artists working all over Cornwall. While the standard of work last year was really good this year it is even higher making the choice of the selection panel a very difficult task indeed.

"The 31 selected artists will be exhibiting alongside highly acclaimed guest artist Andrew Tozer and the 15 members of the Lizard Art Co-operative. The exhibition will show a huge diversity of art so something to please every eye."

The exhibition at Stable Yard Gallery, Trelowarren Estate, near Helston, will be opened by Sir Ferres Vyvyan at noon on Sunday and will then open daily from 11am to 4pm until April 12.

The Stable Yard Gallery will then close until April 17 when the first Lizard Art Exhibition of the season entitled 15 Ways Of Seeing will open. It will showcase the work of the 15-strong co-operative of artists, opening between 11am and 4pm daily.
